VOLUME I

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR
Executive Secretary
Agricultural Council of California

California, it so happens, produces more Christmas dinners—or at least more of the savory ingredients which go into Christmas dinners—than any other state or area on the face of the globe.

In fact, if Mrs. America were denied the help of the California farmer at Christmas time, she would be hard put to it to fill the void.

California will provide more turkeys for American tables this Yuletide season than any other state in the Union.

California, too, will provide millions of roast chickens; millions of fried chickens; millions of eggs for millions of cakes; raising for the puddings, oranges and walnuts and almonds for Christmas stockings in millions of households.

In most homes, the asparagus tips for the salads, the lettuce and the tomatoes—or perhaps the halves of avocados—will have come from California. And the preserved and sliced fruits, which add the final festive touch to a sumptuous Xmas feast—they, too, will have come from California, in all probability.

And California farmers, right now, are hard at work preparing the fixings for tens of millions of American dinners that will make Christmas day this year a memorable occasion.

This story is written, not simply to remind California farmers of the important role they play in holiday festivities, but also to reassure the nation that there will be no shortage of Christmas delicacies on December 25, even though imported foods are running low and may not be available.

From New York comes a news dispatch that there's only enough caviar in the United States to last until Christmas.

And supplies of pate de foie gras are practically exhausted.

Olive oils, imported cheeses, and chestnuts and other luxury items from foreign lands are also apt to be costly, if obtainable.

But happily, America is not dependent on imports from war-torn Europe.

This nation, which loves its plain American foods, has plenty of pork and plenty of beans—for American pork and beans. It has turkeys and cranberries and pumpkins in bumper quantities. It has sweet corn, quick frozen so that it will taste fresh all winter. Due to California's Imperial Valley and other warm belts, it has fresh vegetables when the snows are flying back in the Middle West and New England. It has glazed apricots and prunes; watermelon rind preserves; fancy cheeses which would make even the Swiss envious; syrup and buckwheat for cakes.

When it comes to food, this nation our America—has everything.

There's only one problem—and that's to see that all Americans have the money with which to buy it. Our only real problem in this country is to achieve domestic peace, as we have peace with other nations, so that men of all creeds and classes can find work again—and security at their own firesides.

America need not worry, as it approaches the Yuletide season, because caviar and goose liver paste are running short. It need not be too disturbed for lack of Italian Olive oils, or Swiss cheese, for actually American cheese can't be improved upon—and American butter is an improvement upon the finest olive oils from Italy.

During the Yule season, however, America does need to give thought to how its bounty can be spread among all its people. California can supply more delicacies for holiday banquets than all foreign lands combined. America just needs work—and that's the job all America should buckle down to. We have conquered production; we now need only learn to conquer distribution. We need only learn to live together!

Youth Fined $25, Loses License 30 Days

Bill Sayers, charged with driving well in excess of the speed limit, was fined $25 before Justice of the Peace Will G. Taylor last Thursday and was admonished against repetition of the offense under penalty of a six-month sentence, suspended. His license to drive was taken up for 30 days.

FARM BUREAU HAS ANNUAL MEETING

Membership Enrollment For New Year Starts At Breakfast On Monday

The county Farm Bureau held its annual meeting Saturday night at Coloma Community hall and launched the enrollment of membership for the new year at a breakfast meeting Monday morning at Hotel Raffles.

The annual meeting opened with a dinner for the membership at six o'clock. The county organization supplied the main dish for the dinner and other dishes were supplied by the various centers.

The formal meeting convened about eight o'clock in the main room of the Coloma Community Hall with James A. Irving, county Farm Bureau president, in charge. The first matter on the program was a citizenship inaugural ceremony into citizenship members of 4-H Clubs of the county who have come of age during the past year. Those of the qualified 4-H Club members who participated included Dorothy Oates, Louis Wunschel, Jr., Bill Muir and Claybourne Trumbley.

The service was conducted by Sam Hern as master of ceremonies and the flag was escorted under the supervision of Paul R. Smith as Allan Combella, bugler, sounded "To The Colors."

Hern conducted the program assisted by Ellsworth Willard and by Thomas Maul, who gave a short talk on the responsibilities of citizenship. Dorothy Oates and Claybourne Trumbley made responses. Melvin Marks led the assemblage in the salute to the flag and Mrs. Noreen Peterson and Mrs. Gladys Akin assisted in the program as pianists. Approximately thirty flags and banners were grouped on the platform, carried by as many 4-H Club members.

Following a demonstration in the clothing project, by two girls of the 4-H Club at Rescue, County President James A. Irving introduced George H. Eberhard, as speaker of the evening. His subject was "The Election and What?"

Noting the world situation and its probable effect upon agriculture, Mr. Eberhard said "The small farmer, orchardist and stock raiser are critical of leadership and where we should be strongest in our local Farm Bureau centers, membership is small and largely inactive; hence, (Continued on Page Three)

Dan M. Keller Rites Monday

Diamond Springs Man Took Life In Despondency At County Hospital Saturday

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon from the Dillingham mortuary chapel for Dan M. Keller, 60, for many years resident at Diamond Springs. The Rev. Harold Morehouse was in charge. Interment was at Union cemetery.

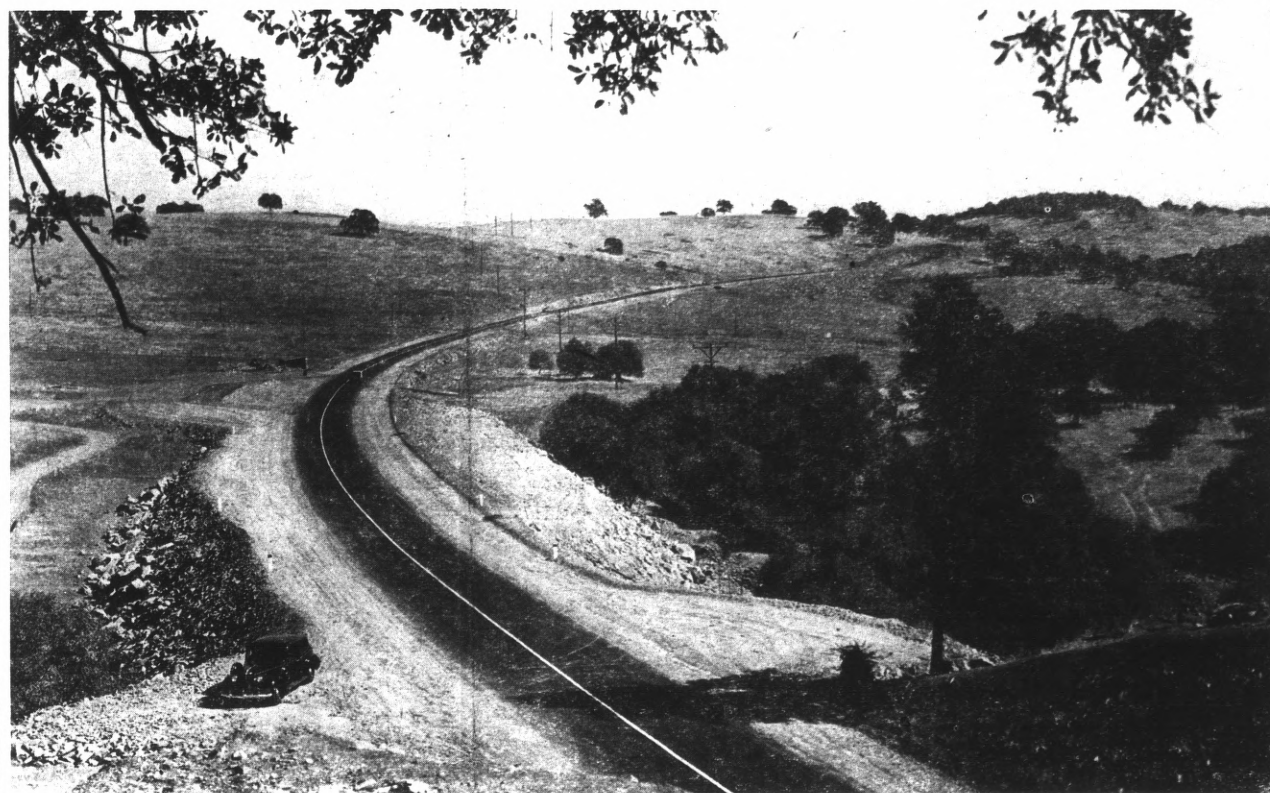

Mr. Keller died by his own hand early Saturday when he slashed an artery in his arm with the blade of a razor while a patient at the county hospital. His act was not discovered until he had been so weakened by loss of blood that it was impossible to save him.

The deceased, friends report, had become despondent as a result of continuing poor health and from time to time had given what was considered to be evidence of mental instability. There had been some suggestion that he should be committed to a state hospital but in lieu of this, he was admitted to the county hospital and was received there, Steward Ed. Willard said on Monday morning, "about two or three weeks ago."

Mr. Keller was a native of California and friends reported they understood he was born in Amador County. He had resided at Diamond Springs for many years, serving there for a period as constable. For many years past he had been employed as a ditch-tender.

He had many friends in his home community as well as in Placerville, whose acquaintance with him leaves no doubt in their minds but what the act which took his life was committed during a period when his mind was not his own.

Mr. Keller is survived by his wife, one son and one daughter.

WHIGAM QUILTS AS SKI HEAD

Club Will Undertake To Name New President At Meeting On December 12

Reuel V. Whigam, president of Placerville Ski Club, tendered his resignation from that office at the club's meeting Friday night at the P. G. & E. Co. offices. The resignation was accepted and the matter of naming a successor was referred to the nominating committee, of which A. N. Weber is chairman.

Mr. Weber said Monday that the committee will be prepared to report at the next regular meeting of the club on December 12th. Mr. Whigam's resignation was accepted by the club with regret after he had explained that business will require his presence in other fields so much of the time during the winter sports season that he will be unable to devote the time to the club which an executive officer should devote.

Preparatory to taking part in the annual Sacramento Winter Sports Carnival in January, the club named a committee of which Miss Florence Reckers is chairman, with Mrs. Irma Lewis, Wallace Ripley and L. T. Cook, to arrange a contest for selecting a queen contestant from El Dorado County.

The ski shelter committee reported that work on the shelter in the Lover's Leap Ski Area is continuing and in this connection the club instructed its secretary to address a letter to the Placerville Lumber Company expressing the club's gratitude and appreciation for the gratuity and delivery to the shelter of a considerable quantity of lumber by the concern.

NEW FOREST CLERK TO TAKE UP DUTIES ABOUT MAR. 1; MORAN LEAVES SOON

J. M. Keusseff will be transferred to Placerville about March 1st to succeed F. F. Moran as chief clerk at Eldorado Forest headquarters.

This is according to announcement Monday morning.

Mr. Moran, who is taking a leave of absence to offer his services as a civilian instructor in the aviation phase of the national defense program, expects to leave the post early in December.

Mr. Keusseff is currently working with Mr. Moran to familiarize himself with the problems of the local assignment.

The new appointee has been a member of the Forest Service for five years, being connected with the regional Forest headquarters of San Francisco for that period, except for a year and a half spent as chief clerk on the Tahoe National Forest.

Firemen were called Friday evening to extinguish a small fire in the basement of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Immer, in Uppertown. The origin of the blaze was not immediately determined.

Madam Perkins Is Reported To Have Resigned Labor Post

NEW YORK, (UP)—The New York World-Telegram said today it had learned in labor circles that Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins has submitted her resignation to President Roosevelt who accepted it. Labor sources told the newspaper that the resignation had been accepted for some time but announcement apparently had been delayed by difficulty in finding a successor who would have the confidence of both the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Miss Perkins' background was social work and it was understood that the President desired a successor more closely identified with the labor movement. Labor leaders said the successor might be Mayor F. H. LaGuardia who has been mentioned frequently as a cabinet possibility.

6-STORY SACRAMENTO OFFICE BUILDING LOST IN FLAMES

SACRAMENTO, (UP)—Fire early today nearly destroyed the six-story building, downtown office structure, causing damage estimated in excess of $100,000.

Among tenants of the building were Sacramento Area Boy Scouts, and a branch of the U. S. Army Engineers which supervises flood control work in the Sacramento Valley.

A general alarm sent all available apparatus to the blaze, and firemen off duty were called in. Two firemen were injured, neither seriously. Joseph Cacchi was struck by a falling brick but was protected by his helmet from serious injury. Thomas Corrigan was cut by flying glass.

Investigators were unable to determine the cause of the fire immediately. It started on the first floor and climbed through the elevator shaft to the roof, part of which collapsed.

The building was owned by Otis D. Babcock, Sacramento county district attorney.

DECORATIONS AWARDS ARE INCLUDED IN PLANS OF XMAS COMMITTEE

The merchants committee on Christmas decorations in the community announced Monday that the placing of decorations in the business section will be started on Tuesday.

It also was announced that at a meeting of the committee in charge on Friday, it was agreed that cash awards will be made again this year for decorated out-of-door Christmas trees and for yard decorations of "sets."

The amount of cash awards and the regulations governing the judging of the two contests had not yet been determined, the committee indicated.

The out-door decorations contests have been inaugurated as a community activity in recent years and although in the beginning the competition has not been general, the decorations which were entered in the contests have been very attractive and have contributed measurably to the spirit of Christmas in the community.

Sam Speers Patient At The Sanatorium

Sam Speers, work superintendent for Snowline CCC camp, is a patient at Placerville Sanatorium and was reported Monday as resting easily.

Mr. Speers was seized during Friday night at his home by a cerebral disturbance and is a hospital patient for rest and observation.

The nature of his affliction requires complete quiet and at least for the present, doctors advise, the patient is not receiving visitors.

MRS. ELIZABETH ANN OBER DIED LATE SUNDAY; SERVICES WEDNESDAY

Mrs. Elizabeth Ann (Bess) Ober, 74, widow of William Ober, died late Sunday night at a hospital in Placerville where she had been a patient for about six weeks.

The funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 o'clock from Memory Chapel. Rev. Rex A. Barron will have charge. Interment will be at Union cemetery.

Mrs. Ober was a native of England who came to America as a young woman with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. James Higgins, and their family, settling first at Plymouth.

The deceased came to Placerville nearly forty years ago. She is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Frank Clifton, of this city; Mrs. Lillian Lilly, of Napa, and Mrs. E. J. Harvey, of Sutter Creek, in addition to a number of nephews and nieces.

BULGARIA IS OMITTED IN AXIS PLAN

Slovakia Agrees And Nazi Sources Indicate Present Diplomatic Flurry Ended

ROME, (UP)—Adelchi Serena, secretary of the Fascist party, ruled today that radio listeners must stand while listening to broadcasts of Italian war communiques.

Bulgaria Omitted

BERLIN, (UP)—Authorized Nazi spokesmen said today that Slovakia's signature to an Axis pact had "completed" the present series of diplomatic negotiations and that Bulgaria was not expected to sign any such pact.

The statement caused surprise since it had been said in well-informed private circles and in non-official sources close to the foreign office, that all preparations had been made for Bulgarian adherence this week.

This, however, was never officially confirmed. (At Sofia last week it was said that Bulgaria did not intend to enter the war or join the Axis unless Russia did likewise or gave approval.) Asked whether the apparent sudden change was due to the recent defense measures taken by Turkey, an authorized source sharply replied:

"It should not be assumed that those countries which intend to conclude pacts with the Reich would let themselves be deterred by the scowls of neighboring countries."

Hamburg Hit

LONDON, (UP)—The air ministry said today that British bombers had raided shipyards and industrial plants in Hamburg again last night, causing many fires and explosions.

Other night targets were the Altona gas works, the Wilhelmshaven docks, the Hamburg-Wilhelmshaven chemical factory, the Boulogne port, the Denhelder dock yard and various enemy airbases and sea-plane bases," a communique said.

Bristol Blasted

BERLIN, (UP)—Nazi informants today said that several hundred German airplanes had "concentrated" Bristol last night, dropping more than 700,000 pounds of explosives and 10,000 incendiary bombs on that port.

Two Fire Alarms For City On Friday

City firemen answered two alarms Friday, one at mid-morning resulting from a grass fire near the Perry Beach property on Mill Street.

The second alarm, about one o'clock, was occasioned by a brush fire near the Sherman mine, on Bedford Avenue. The fire department responded to the alarm but found that the fire was beyond the city limits and reported the situation to the state Division of Forestry at Mt. Diabla.

Firemen reported that J. J. Burley, who resides in the vicinity, was fighting the fire and that no property seemed to be in immediate danger.

Calvin and Don Wright were home from studies at San Jose to spend Thanksgiving Day and Calvin's birthday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Wright.

"ROULETTE of LOVE" by MAY-CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS Ten days after beautiful Lucinda Stanford's meeting with wealthy Carter Chalaire, he confesses his love for her. However, socially prominent Zita Van Vorst has her cap set for Carter with the approval of his mother. Lucinda is happy in the thought that Carter wants to marry her but her heart sinks when, in reply to her question as to what his mother will say, he replies: "Mother needn't know a thing about it. What's it got to do with my family?" Then, one night, Carter does not appear. The next evening, Lucinda learns from Bubbles, her gold-digging sister, that Carter is to marry Zita. The same night, Carter calls but says nothing of his engagement although he speaks of the futility of life and how, when one really begins to learn what happiness means, something bobs up to spoil it. Carter induces Lucinda to go to Lake Mahopac for the weekend. Though innocent of any misconduct, she loses her job as an advertisement writer as a result, but secures another as hostess at a fashionable gambling establishment. One evening, Carter visits the club while intoxicated and loses $20,000. Later, he hears the proprietor tell Lucinda that her commission on the loss is $400. He thinks she framed him and breaks with her. Carter marries Zita but they do not get along. During an argument with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Chalaire dies of a heart attack.

CHAPTER XII The Stock Exchange firm of Chalaire Incorporated was dead in a bad way. Mrs. Jeremy Chalaire had scarcely been laid away to rest when the blow fell. It seemed that Jeremy Chalaire had headed the pool manipulating the liquor stock, which crashed deplorably. Four hundred thousand dollars must be raised at once, to stock deliveries before the closing of the market at three o'clock—otherwise the firm would be suspended from the Exchange!

The banks refused any more loans. Jeremy Chalaire was frantic. His son dashed home to his Park Avenue apartment to take the family jewels and put them up as collateral. The butler informed him that his wife had gone to lunch at a famous speakeasy in the Fifties. The jewels were not in Zita's room. Carter dashed there at top speed, for already it was almost half past one.

He found Zita in the bar with another woman and two notorious women-chasers. It was with the greatest difficulty that he dragged her away from them, even though he insisted that his news was important. She stared at him coldly when he told her that she must give up the jewels. Nor would she say anything until he had driven her back to their apartment in his car, when she sneeringly informed him that the jewels were not there!

"Good Lord! You dared to waste this time! Zita, don't you realize that every second is precious? It's already after two! The Exchange closes at three! And that'll be our finish!"

"I tell you the jewels aren't in this apartment! And even if they were, you wouldn't get them, for without them what would he let her go?" she fumed. "With the firm gone broke, all I'd get out of my marriage would be a handsome, penniless husband! No, thanks! I stick to the jewels! They're mine!"

"They're not! You've only got custody of them! My mother didn't leave a will. And even if she had, they belong to the family. Where are they, Zita?"

She declined flatly to tell him. For fifteen frantic minutes they argued. Then Carter lost control of himself. He rushed at her, catching her by the throat. He shouted: "You'd see us ruined for a few baubles, you—"

She struggled with him. She was terrified now. She panted: "They're in the bank down-town, in the safe deposit box! My mother let her go, demanding that she give him the key, she moaned that she had no idea where it was, that he had better go to the bank himself. . . ."

But now it was too late! Carter flung himself frantically into his car, and ignoring lights and possible "tickets," sped down town. But despite his haste, the traffic held him up several times. He was zooming down Fourth Avenue when the big clock that tops City Hall ponderously struck three times!

Eight minutes later he drew up outside the building on Wall Street where Chalaire Incorporated had its offices. Directly in front of him at the curb was an ambulance. . . . A little knot of people had collected. Carter leapt from his car. The door-keeper, looking very scared, stopped him as he entered the building.

"Mr. Chalaire, sir . . . bad news, sir . . . your father . . ." the man stuttered. He broke off, staring at the ambulance.

"Good Lord. For him? . . ."

A frightened little office-boy was guarding the door of Jeremy Chalaire's private sanctum. There was a sound of voices inside. Carter thrust his way past the boy.

A white-clad ambulance-attendant and a doctor were stooping over the body, which lay on a leather-covered couch in a corner. Jeremy's secretary, an efficient girl who had been there for years, was sobbing quietly. After the report of the gun, she had been the first to find him slumped on his desk.

Some clerks and customers' men were near the door, inside the room. They made way for the son of their boss.

"Oh, Mr. Carter, I was in the outer room! It was just as the clock struck three on City Hall . . . the shot came!"

Carter thrust the girl aside. A blood-soaked bandage was about his father's head. Yet, strangely enough, there was a peaceful look on his face as he lay there on the couch.

"Dad! Good Lord! Oh, why did you do it? Why? . . ." Like a torrent, memory of the long years of his father's kindness and patience with him swept over Carter. As he stooped over that silent figure, tears coursed down his cheeks, and it seemed as though his very heart was wrenched asunder.

The white-coated doctor had his stethoscope to the chest. The attendant was tightening the bandages. . . .

Then the doctor removed his instrument and got up.

"You his son?"

Carter nodded, speechless.

"It's all over. He was dead when we got here."

After the necessary and painful formalities had been gone through, Carter returned to his home on Park Avenue.

His father was gone. Wild-eyed, he told himself that his wife, Zita, was the murderer. . . .

"Madam left a note for you, sir," said the butler.

With futile rage in his heart, he read the curt missive. It informed him that his wife was leaving him, as she could not stand such treatment as he had just exposed her to! He glanced at the clock. It was five. Still time to call the bank and find if she had removed the jewels from the safe-deposit vault. . . .

She had. He telephoned Cruiks, the family lawyer, immediately, instructing him to institute proceedings for the recovery of the jewels, then to sell them, and pay the creditors in full. . . .

Lucinda read of the tragedy in the newspapers. Also the more or less caustic comments in the social columns. Anent Zita leaving her husband. . . .

Zita had gone to Reno, where one could now get a divorce in six weeks!

Greatly daring, Lucinda penned a kind little note of sympathy to Carter, in the swift passing of his father and mother.

She sat at home every night, praying that by some miracle the bell might ring, and Carter—the old Carter she had loved so terribly—might be on the doorstep. . . . But nights were lonely. If Carter had received her note, he gave no sign.

"I say, the bally old blighter is drinking terribly, she was informed

Today's Sport Parade

By Henry McLenore United Press Staff Correspondent

DES MOINES, Iowa, (U)—Have you ever jumped right out of your skin? I mean, have you ever jumped completely out of it so that it stood right there beside you, looking like a Dr. Denton sleeping garment?

I did the other day, in the middle of the Register and Tribune sports department. It wasn't a pretty sight, because after all beauty is only skin deep.

The reason for all this was the sudden and unexpected arrival of Bob Feller, not a Bob Feller but THE Bob Feller, of whom the nicest things I said all last baseball season was that he was a cry-baby, a sissy, and a whiner. I'm so broad-minded that I am capable of overlooking the fact that he only won 27 games and is perhaps the finest pitcher in baseball.

Well, anyway, there he stood right back of me, fresh from a quail hunting trip and with a shotgun in his hands. I had several nasty little thoughts, one being that maybe Feller wasn't as broadminded as I was and wouldn't overlook the things I had written about him and Trotsky and Harder and Chapman and the other Cleveland Indians.

I didn't dare turn around for a moment. Under my breath I whispered, "Count ten, Bob, count ten. I hoped he remembered his American history, particularly that part about 'Don't shoot until you see the whites of their eyes.' I kept mine closed—on purpose.

Remembering he was an Indian, and being a neat person, I brushed my forehead for the scalping. Seconds passed and nothing happened. Slowly I turned around. Quickly I turned back. He looked bigger, standing there in a hunting suit, and with a 12 gauge in his hands.

He spoke the first word. I was past speech.

"Nice to see you, Henry. What you doing out here?"

"I was dying a few minutes ago, Bob, but I'm feeling a lot better now. Howya Bob, ol' boy, ol' boy, ol' boy?"

Believe it or not, we got to chattering. He understood all about the riding the Indians took last year. Said he thought it was a perfect set-up for a sportswriter and that any sportswriter who didn't write about it would have been crazy. He did say, however, that there were two sides to the trouble the Indians had with Vitt. He wouldn't explain, though.

"That's all over," Bob said. "We all know Peckinpaugh and we all like him. He is a man who agrees with us that we have the best club in the American League and can win the pennant. That sort of spirit will help us next season."

I enjoyed every moment of our talk, but I kept wanting to call him Governor and thank him for the reprieve.

Ugh-ugh. Nice Indians.

our state and national units are weak where they should be strong. In a world that is changing so rapidly with such serious threat to our way of life, this is most unfortunate. "There is no reason to believe that the big producing units or the political group will do more than to give lip service to the small farmers," orchardists, and stockraisers' problem. The big fellow can take care of himself. The only out is through a strong organization of large membership where the interests of each and all are working to get mutual results."

The program closed with all joining in the national anthem. The meeting and dinner had been arranged by a committee of three including Ray Marks, Max Bollman and Harry Reaside.

Representatives of the membership committees of various centers met Monday morning at breakfast at Hotel Raffles and launched the annual enrollment. Among those who were present were Mrs. A. K. Barton, Mrs. Merle Cannon, James A. Irving, Fred Wessels, Ray Marks, Max Bollman, Malcolm Veerkamp, Harry Reaside, Mrs. Clara Rank, William Dietz and Art Speegle.

THE SPIRIT OF

by JOHN CLINTON

Wordsworth (I think!). And in my early days I felt that "A gas station by the highway's rim, a simple station was to him, and it was nothing more!"

And then I began this precarious career, and Union Oil stations came into my life. I'd like to tell you something about them. First of all, things happen at Union Oil stations. The Minute Men who operate them, in addition to serving your ordinary needs, also find time for such things as:

Looking for cats that jump out of cars; helping put out neighborhood fires; pumping up bicycle tires for neighborhood small-fry; blowing up toy balloons for parties; making temporary emergency repairs with such materials as hairpins, string and odds and ends.

Lending campers can openers, supplying boats to a forgetful fisherman, minding Junior while his mother went to vote, helping youngsters across unguarded intersections, rushing a bottle of Union Glass Cleaner over to a neighboring airport, extracting miscellaneous articles from back of rear seats.

What a business! The reason I mention it here is simply this... Union Oil Company's Minute Men are good neighbors, wherever you find them. It's Union's great pride, its constant joy that you, the customer, are generally well and quickly served at Union Oil stations — no matter what you want! Ever try it?

TEN SHEEP TO CLOTHE ONE SOLDIER

WOOL IN THE SERVICE

What national defense means when translated into agricultural and industrial preparedness was indicated at the closing session of the 80th annual convention of the California Wool Growers this week in San Francisco when Marshall Bond, President said that it will take ten sheep to clothe one soldier.

To clothe the four million men which the nation plans to put under arms will require nearly the total shorn wool production of forty-eight million sheep of the United States for one year. This makes no provision for civilian needs of wool.

All of which brings to the fore the curtailment in sheep production in recent years through the expansion of national parks, national monuments and wild life refuges, and the attendant increase in predatory animals.

Recognition of the serious problem confronting the nation in the supply of its wool needs is expected to result in the removal of the artificial barriers that have tended to constantly decrease the sheep range areas in California and a number of other western states.

FRED BAUMHOFF BUYS OLDEST, LARGEST PLACER PROPERTY IN STATE OF IDAHO

Reconditioning work is in progress preparatory to large scale hydraulic operation at Gold Hill Placer near Idaho City, Idaho, recently purchased by A. F. Baumhoff, Centerville, Idaho. Ole Johnson and L. W. Mann, from W. W. Miller and Franklin Trust Company of Pennsylvania, says the Mining and Industrial News.

First work has been started on re-paving of ditches and flumes which carry water from Elk and Mores creeks. Although millions of dollars in gold are reported to have been taken from Gold Hill claims in former operations, an estimated 12-000,000 yards of gravel carrying values from 20 to 30 cents a yard remain to be worked, and with improved methods, operators expect to double past production of 400,000 yards a year.

Gold Hill Placer, known as Idaho's largest and oldest hydraulic gold mine, was located in 1862 by Joseph Branstetter. Mann, who is serving as manager of present operations, was foreman of old Gold Hill. Baumhoff is a member of the firm of Fisher & Baumhoff, operating as Warren Dredging Company.

ALIENS MUST REGISTER WITH GOVERNMENT BEFORE DEC. 26

Alien registration will end on December 26 and all non-citizens who have not yet registered are warned that severe penalties will follow failure to comply with this federal law.

All aliens, 14 years of age and older, must register in person and be fingerprinted.

Alien children, under 14 years, are to be registered by their parents or guardians.

Registration takes place at the post offices.

There is no charge of any kind connected with alien registration.

The Department of Justice warns aliens to beware of racketeers.

The Post Office Department and the Department of Justice will willingly assist the alien in every possible way.

Earl G. Harrison, Director of the Alien Registration of the department, suggests that those aliens who have not yet registered do so as soon as possible and avoid the usual Christmas rush at the post office.

All aliens are also warned that, having registered, they are required to report any change in their permanent residence address within five days to the Immigration and Naturalization Service of the Department of Justice in Washington. Forms for this purpose are obtainable at all post offices.

No alien need be unprepared for the questions he will be asked as sample registration forms which show him exactly what information he will need at registration are available in all postoffices.
